RSLC Political Director – Edith Jorge-Tuñón

Edith Jorge-Tuñón has over a decade of political experience ranging from overseeing the national Coalitions program at the Republican National Committee, to directing National Field efforts at the Koch Network’s LIBRE Initiative. Formerly the Political Director for Governor Susana Martinez’s re-election campaign, Edith built a grassroots program that helped win the New Mexico statehouse for the first time in over 50 years. Prior to that, she helped Governor Chris Christie secure the Hispanic vote in NJ during his re-election by 51%. She is currently the Political Director at the Republican State Leadership Committee, the only national organization committed to electing republicans at the state level.
